WHY LENGTH MATTERS: EXTRA LENGTH = EXTRA PROTECTION

WHY LENGTH MATTERS?

Using gloves that are longer than the industry standard (> 300mm) removes the need for additional protective items such as sleeve-covers or the use of cuff tape, thereby saving costs and reducing waste, resulting in a positive impact on the environment.

A longer length glove also provides extensive arm coverage to users when handling hazardous chemicals. The wearer should have increased protection and reassurance from a glove that is 400mm/16" in length or longer to ensure that the entire forearm up to the elbow is covered and protected from the risk of exposure to harmful chemicals.

Product protection is also of the utmost importance; coverage up to the elbow, with a beaded cuff for a more secure fit on the arm, means longer length gloves eliminate the risk of contamination from exposed skin between the gloves and the garment.
